Tradition . . .

Tradition is to be upheld, created or rejected. Here at Winchester High School, the tradition has always been for the graduating class to make their own traditions. We, the class of 1980 have been no exception to that rule. We have all worked together to create an atmosphere of social and academic excellence. Our class is unique in that we have experienced the emergence of new and meaningful traditions. Since our Sophomore year we have seen the formation of a girls soccer team, a miraculous revival of the marching band, the creation of an "underground" newspaper and a renewed school spirit that grows stronger by the moment.

Excited Sachem fans cheer on their team.

Football players battle it out on the field.

The WHS Band contributes to school spirit at a football game.

Cheerleaders Debbie Lizotte and Beth O'Neil have high hopes of victory.

Field hockey players Carolyn Twomey and Kathy Day fight to get the ball from an opponent.

Tradition . . .

The traditions that make up our lives are not just confined to the school. In the community of Winchester where we have spent the first part of our lives, our mark is clear. Not only does our Sachem symbol adorn the school front, it has infiltrated numerous town locations. The spirit of youth and pride represented by that Sachem has renewed the old traditions of Winchester with the spark of new ideas. Even just by looking at the town with its paradoxical blend of sturdy, traditional buildings and modern concrete and glass structures, one can see the transition toward the future which dominates all areas of our lives. It is our responsibility to maintain and improve the high quality traditions that have characterized the spirit of Winchester for so long.

The town hall, as seen from the high school is typical of Winchester's older, more sedate architecture.

The brand new bank overlooking Wedge Pond illustrates the development towards modernity.

The Aberjona, flowing by the high school, carries the images of the traditional New England church spire.

A future W.H.S. student and a former W.H.S. student stroll through the Winchester Common.

At Mill Pond, behind the library, the modern Mill Pond building is reflected in the well-known "duck pond".

Another duck pond shot shows the "Forest primeval" of willow trees and a Winchester family.

Senior Year . . . at last we made it! After three years of saying "I can't wait until," we finally are SENIORS! But getting to the top meant starting at the bottom. Sophomore year was the merging of Lynch and McCall, the confusion of a new building, new friends, and more freedom. It was the start of our climb. Juniors — no longer the youngest, we became the middlemen. It was a matter of survival . . . PSATS, SATS, getting a date for the Junior Prom, and always hearing, "This is the year that counts". But we pulled through — the class of '80 has arrived. No longer are we a face in the crowd, a member of the masses. We are SENIORS, a step above the rest.

SENIORS

Beginning . . .

Beginning . . . It's a whole new year. "We're finally seniors." As the class of '80 moves toward their final year of high school, a new class spirit is born. Football games . . . courtyard sessions . . . switching classes . . . planning weekends . . . all are things to remember, as it is our last year at W.H.S., the year for us to be NUMBER ONE!

Friends, school, work, parties, games, secret, (and not so secret) "rendez-vous" are all to be enjoyed and never to be forgotten.

But, is this the beginning or the end? College, careers, and most important of all, independence lie ahead. We should all remember to . . . GO FOR IT!

"Go West young men" — Richard Mangano, John DeBeradinis, Mark O'Brien.

Ahh ... Weekends. — Linda Piazza, Colleen Rae, and Gary Walsh are already psyched!

What, tired already?

Senior Life From The Inside Out.

School isn't just for studying anymore, but believe it or not, it does go on, even among Seniors. Even though our "I don't care" attitude might not always show it, we do care, at least until January. Before then we attend the thrilling lectures, do the enjoyable homework and anxiously await the 2:23 bell everyday. In the middle of all this, when the weekend is four days away, or one day ago, salvation can be found only in the precious and few studies, especially when open campus allows you to linger over lunch or run up to White Hen. The studying does go on but there's always room for exceptions.

Good Food, Good Gossip, Good Lunch (Mary Grassi, Colleen McGann, Joyce Fryklund, Kathy Day and Stephanie Johnson).

Dr. Skehan and Dr. Watts perform surgery.

Another productive study is sacrificed.

Susan Mahoney shows true school spirit.

The class of eighty assembles for an orderly riot.

Not just another

"C'mon, we dare ya!" Paul Grenier, Rick Welch, and Seth MacDonald.

Open up, "Fitz" Susan Fitzgerald.

Once more, then I kick it! — Dave Raucci.

Eileen Donovan, Crest Test 1980.

Intellectuals, leathers, jocks, preps, radicals, whimps ... and the list goes on. One thing the class of '80 will always be remembered for are these cliques. Every group has its own way of looking; its own style. The leathers and their famous or infamous jackets, the jocks and their Nikes, the preps with their Chinos and the knapsacks of the radicals: these are the trademarks which distinguish one group from another. But when it counts we are one class, the class of '80 and together we make traditions.

Welcome to our humble abode — Loren Wassle and Shelia Brough.

Being a Senior means . . .

. . . meeting in the courtyard; Barrie Brian, Brad Cowen, Carolyn Mandeville.

. . . enjoying the good times; Marissa Gulino.

Hall of Fame

Most Athletic — Jim Kohr and Christine Driscoll

Winchester High has been fortunate to have had excellent athletes jog through our gymnasium. With each victory, the "mighty Sachem warriors" spur on rowdy spirit. The Class of 1980 has chosen Christine Driscoll and Jim Kohr as its most athletic members. Christine has been the captain of soccer, basketball, and softball, and has received numerous awards. Jim has captained basketball and soccer and plays varsity baseball. Their sports careers will continue, perhaps in the 1984 Olympics!

Most Artistic — Bob Baumann and Kira Hirshman

Focusing on the artistic talents of students at WHS, one's eye is directly attracted to the many displays found in the library. Sculptures line the bookcases and paintings adorn the walls — all are done by high school students. But two especially gifted students come to mind when thinking of art: Kira Hirshman and Bob Baumann. Both are recipients of honors including The Globe sponsored Gold Key awards. But their creativity will go beyond the art room at WHS. Whether they paint in Greenwich Village or redesign the Sistene Chapel, the rest of us will claim it all began here.

Most Likely to Succeed — Jimmy Schultz and Kathy Welch

The meaning of success varies for each individual, but whatever one's interpretation, success does not come easily. The class of 1980 has recognized the qualities of success in two of its outstanding class members: Jim Schultz and Kathy Welch. They have both displayed academic excellence as well as involvement in extra-curricular activities. Their fellow classmates wish them the best of luck on their roads to success.

Best Dressed — Dawn DiMarzo and Lance Cowan

Styles seem to change with the times, and dress is definitely an important part of each person's life. When we look back on our high school years we will always remember the preppies, leathers, and our original fashion plates. Chinos, docksiders, sweaters, and dungarees will all be vivid recollections. Style and originality distinguish Dawn DiMarzo and Lance Cowan, our Best Dressed citizens.

Most Musical - Rachel Tringale and Jim Viglas

Music is the universal language understood by all, as well as being a favorite pastime for many students. Music is WHS is expressed through band, orchestra, and special individual pursuits. The class of '80 has recognized the musical talent of Jim Viglas and Rachel Tringale. Jim is a member of the school band and has taken his musical interest outside of WHS's curriculum and formed his own group "White Lightning." Rachel participates in orchestra, as well as playing much of the music for the yearly Curtain and Cue productions. She is an accomplished pianist interested in classical music.

Most Talkative - Julia Gittleman and Tom Skehan

Endless conversation is the trademark of two very special people in the class of '80. Talk, talk, talk and more talk is guaranteed whenever they are present. Blessed (or maybe cursed) with the gift of gab are Julia Gittleman and Tom Skehan, the Most Talkative members of the senior class.

Most Original - Priscilla Lee and Artie Nasson.

When in high school, it is difficult to fully express your individuality. Two of Winchester's students, Priscilla Lee and Artie Nasson, have ignored the barriers of conformist peer pressure and have succeeded in developing their own unique ways of life. Artie, a member of the rock group, White Lightning, also was the head waiter in "Hello, Dolly!", and is well-known for his original behavior. Priscilla, who lived this past summer in Ecuador in the Amigos Program is also distinguished by her individuality. When in their company, one rule holds true: expect the unexpected.

Hall of Fame

Most Sophisticated: Mark Costello and Renee Vroman.

The word "sophisticated" conjures up an immediate image: the blasé snob, dressed impeccably, and looking down upon the drab mediocre world with a distasteful sigh. Winchester's own sophisticates Mark Costello and Renee Vroman have disproved this stereotype, establishing themselves as individuals of unpretentious refinement. Although their interests vary greatly one thing is sure: whatever they do they do it with a touch of class.

Class Contributors: Tony Johnson and Patricia Intravia.

Activities don't just happen, they require many hours of planning and organization. Unfortunately much of this time and effort goes unrecognized. Being a class officer demands much time, dedication, and often a smile when the reverse seems more appropriate. The Senior class wished to express their sincere thanks to our class Contributors, Tricia Intravia and Tony Johnson, for spending their time and energy to make our year more enjoyable.

Most Theatrical — Anne-Louise Casey and Robert Hallisey

Professional theatre doesn't usually dominate the lifestyle of WHS students, but few of us would miss a Curtain & Cue production. Thanks to the talent and hard work of people like Anne-Louise Casey and Robert Hallisey, the excitement of Broadway comes alive in our own auditorium. In "Kiss Me, Kate", "Anything Goes", and "Hello, Dolly!", Anne-Louise and Rob have displayed remarkable stage presence and musical accomplishment that have made each show an outstanding success.

Most Versatile — Barbara Myers and Tom Wilsack

Everyone is good at something, but few excel in all areas. Two of WHS students, Barbara Myers and Tom Wilsack, have achieved notable success in a wide range of activities to give them the distinction of Most Versatile. Barbara has been a record-setting member of the high-school track team and the layout editor of the school newspaper while maintaining an excellent academic record and pursuing her interest in art. Tom, a valuable member of both the football, and spring and winter track teams, is recognized for his outstanding academic and athletic success.

Underclassmen, whether seniors like to admit it or not, comprise a significant portion of Winchester High School. Although it has been said that "seniors rule," underclassmen are undeniably important in every aspect of school life. They add spunk and spirit to the school routine and in the more serious world of study, they uphold the tradition of academic excellence which elevates our school above the rest. Being the last group to experience the high school as a three year institution, they have already begun to make their own traditions as well as uphold the previous standards.

The underclassmen years create the bonds that will hold the class together in the end. Special moments, shared at traditional underclassmen events like the Junior Prom, driver's ed., and even the underclassmen sponsored dances unify the class with their own spirit that will distinguish their class for years to come.

UNDERCLASSES

How Sophomores See It

The person who said, "The journey not the arrival matters." must have been a sophomore. Sophomore year is the first and hardest step in the three year journey through high school. While Senior year is associated with fun and the Junior year with academics, the Sophomore year is commonly associated with SURVIVAL. Like a person lost at sea without a life preserver, Sophomores are tossed into the overwhelming rigor of high school, basically unprepared. Not only must they survive the academic aspects, and the barrage of tests and papers, but also the social and athletic pressures of high school. It's not easy by any means but remarkably, there are very few casualties in this test of the fittest.

The many benefits of tenth grade may explain the high survival rate. As a Sophomore you're finally a part of W.H.S. You can go to the football games and cheer your school on. You meet new kids and form friendships that will probably last all your life. If you're a glutton for punishment you might even feel pleasantly challenged by the mind boggling amount of work. Traditions of the class of '82 begin here. One tradition that has already been established is the solidarity of this class, and another is their ability to make the best of the sometimes tedious, sometimes enjoyable, but always worthwhile journey.

I wonder if there are any dirty words in this vocabulary book.

One of the aspects of high school life that sophomores most eagerly anticipate is the involvement in interscholastic sports. They yearn to experience the "thrill of victory and the agony of defeat," but very often all they get is a great sideline view.

Underclassmen, especially sophomores, are traditionally rewarded the prestigious position of benchwarmer. Possessing enough talent to make the team, but not enough experience to participate in the actual game or meet, the "benchies" are confined to a season of limited action, seeing more sitting than scoring.

Aside from the regular uniform, all a team member needs is sweats, a huge wad of bubble gum and a keen knowledge of bubble — blowing to be recognized as a true bench warmer.

A chief function of one of these seasonal squatters is to make noise. They scream, yell, howl, clap and stamp their team on to victory. A benchwarmer must constantly be ready because they're always on call. Consequently they have to practice as hard, if not harder than, the "regulars" so that when they get that signal from the coach to "Get in there," they'll be ready.

As long as there are athletic teams there will be benchwarmers. They're not only a tradition here at W.H.S., but worldwide. While benchwarming might not earn a varsity letter or coverage in the Star, it has one very important and overriding advantage, it makes you part of the team.

Day One

"I'm never going to find my way around here!"

"Where's the bathroom?"

"Who was he?"

These remarks reflect the typical state of mind of a sophomore on the first day of school. Confronted with a new building, new kids, and new teachers and many more experiences, the first day can be described in one word, OVERWHELMING.

What is routine and tedious to upperclassmen is new, different, and sometimes frightening to the sophomores. Eventually the novelty wears off and high school doesn't seem too different from junior high. The new faces that the sophomores see on the first day, gradually become familiar as the "rookies" become more at ease in their new surroundings.

RIVALS

With the consolidation of Lynch and McCall going into effect the last townwide junior high school showdown took place, Oct. 8, 1979, with the McCall Spartans beating the Lynch Crusaders. Thus the rivalry that existed between these two schools for nearly 20 years ended.

This rivalry has always extended beyond the field though. Junior high labled you either a "Lynchie" or "McCallite" for life. Sophomores carry on the rivalry for most of the tenth grade, flocking to the big game in the appropriate colors of blue and gold or maroon and gold.

While upperclassmen may not show it as openly, they too remain loyal to their junior high. Even though Lynch and McCall will not exist after 1980, the ties of loyalty that have connected the class of '82 or any other class having attended either school will always remain.

Juniors: The Middlemen

Often the middle child in a family is forgotten and a middle initial is dropped, but the middle year of high school is anything but forgettable.

Junior Year is difficult, eventful and enjoyable all at once. The events of the Junior Year are so varied that it is impossible to find one adjective to describe them.

Difficulties certainly compose a big part of junior year. Academics become foremost, if not in your mind, in the minds of your parents and guidance counselor. College becomes not just a vision in the distant future, but a reality, and preparation starts here. PSAT's SAT's, Achievements, and A.P. tests are integral parts of the Junior year, to say nothing of the work the courses demand.

Besides being difficult, Junior Year is also eventful. This is a year of firsts, including the first high school prom; this year being held in March — possibly the makings of a new tradition. Maybe you'll have your first job and your first experience driving, if you're lucky enough to acquire that precious "pink slip." Junior year might also bring your first chance at playing varsity or first string in sports. You collect your first substantial piece of high school memorabilia, the high school ring that remains a souvenir of your high school days even after graduation.

Amid all this work and change are good times. Traditionally, social life reaches new heights during the eleventh grade. With the availability of a car everything seems to improve and continues improving as the seniors leave and the juniors take their place.

Who says that blondes have more fun? (Julie Berberian, Doug Goodlatte, Nancy Shannon.)

Would you believe, I'm cleaning my bathroom bowl? (Ron Amadeo)

The Sum of Sachem Dedication

The Senior Class would like to present the dedication of the 1980 Aberjona to Mr. Joyce in recognition of the time and support he has given us these past three years. For your neverending sense of humour, your gifted teaching of math, and your many contributions to other areas of the school, athletic as well as academic, We, the Class of '80 dedicate this year-book to you, Mr. John J. Joyce.

"Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know . . . It is a painful, continual, and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept, and by praise; but above all — by example."

— Ruskin

Administration: At the Helm of High Honors.

"I knew I could make the honor roll!"

Sometimes, in our three years at Winchester High School, it seemed as though we were travelling, drifting without direction, towards an undetermined end. That's the impression we may have had, but to the four men at the tip, we have always been geared for graduation.

The Administration, the highly visible trio that resides in the main office is responsible for a great deal of our education. Directly and indirectly they affect every particle of learning that we are exposed to. Maintenance of a top-quality faculty, expansion of current academic programs, and the personal supervision of every student are just a few of their responsibilities.

Students rarely appreciate the demanding trials the work of the Administration brings. Now though, at the end of our three years of education, we can look objectively back to see the role they played in bringing us to this point. The Class of '80 would like to thank the Administration for working so hard and caring so much; for allowing us to be the class with class.

There have always been certain standards that faculty members expect students to live up to, and other standards that students demand from the teachers. The ideal student comes to class on time, completes the work to the best of his ability and expresses a sincere respect for the teacher and his subject. In return, the ideal teacher will care enough about his subject to make the work interesting and meaningful. Outside of possessing the technical skills necessary to teach, the teacher goes beyond the mere profession if he understands the students well enough to empathize with their difficulties, whether they rest in the actual subject matter or reach beyond into the personal traumas of everyday life. It is surprisingly pleasant to find that, despite their differences in philosophy, the majority of W.H.S. teachers fulfill the students' expectations. The faculty deserves a genuine thanks for sharing their time, thoughts, and wisdom with the Class of '80.

Efficiency In the Office

Leading the Way

Senior year is a busy and often trying time for students as they are faced with the chore of applying to colleges. However, this time is equally trying for guidance counselors. Responsible for approximately 70 seniors each, these dedicated people are deluged with work as they strive to meet each student's many deadlines. Guidance counselors begin their involvement with students long before the period of college selection arises. They aid students in solving problems involving grades, teachers and any other personal problems the students may encounter.

Often times the advice of one's guidance counselor is not truly appreciated until the time when college and careers become impending realities. They are ready to listen to a student's plans for the future and to point out his available options. They would politely explain that a career in plant psychology might not be very practical and that striving for Harvard with SAT scores in the 300's might be slightly unrealistic.

The Class of 1980 wishes to express their appreciation to these kind and dedicated men and women.

A New Learning Experience

Among the senior electives in English is Humanities, a double – period, college – level course including English, History, Music and Art. Enthusiastically taught by Ms. Austin, Mr. Maloney, Mr. Cowgill and Mr. Tracey respectively, this course was designed to give students a "rigorous learning experience." Despite the coffee and doughnuts session on the first day of school, students soon found the course to be quite "rigorous," but the challenge was very worthwhile.

Creatively Inspired

It's Miller Time!

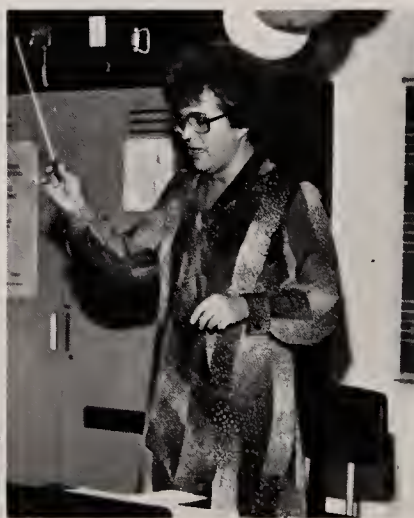

Ms. Priscilla Miller, director of the band for the past two years, has inspired outstanding enthusiasm among the band members and their fans. The initiation of 7 AM practices paid off in professional creative performances every football Saturday. Ms. Miller's surprise appearance in a suit of flashing lights and her arrival as Santa at a band party will long be remembered as typical Miller creations.

Every year, athletics play a major role in retaining and creating traditions at Winchester High School. The spirited support of the crowds, the skill of the teams and the individual players all lead to Sachem victories.

But the support and achievement didn't end at football. Soccer, basketball, and baseball, while not as eagerly attended, still exemplified the outstanding school spirit, that is unique to the class of '80. This year's teams have truly outdone themselves in getting "psyched" for their games and using that Sachem edge of confidence to overcome their opponents.

"The Family," breakfasts, tattoos, house — decorating, dummy-burning, Soccer-ball, and jackets were incentives to give your all for your team, to carry on Sachem victories, and to mark Winchester as having unlimited spirit and team effort.

The Sachem team was noted for the strength and size of its line the speed of its backs, its aftergame festivities, and most of all its unity.

After Turkey Day '78 "Think Natick" began and the Sachem family was born. After a year of waiting, weightlifting, pushing cars, and running up and down the stands, the football team stunned second ranked Natick on opening day 7-0 and silenced the critics. Under the leadership of head coach Manny Marshall and tri-captains Bellino, Cowen and Micciche, the family coasted to five straight victories culminating in showing that they loved the nightlife by a 35-7 eclipse of Wakefield in the first Winchester night game ever. They were ranked #1 in Eastern Mass. Then came the Melrose letdown. The family rebounded with shutouts over Watertown and Burlington. The Thanksgiving day classic drew closer and closer with both

They had no single hero, everyone was a superstar on the team. The team worked hard and played hard. They banded together both on and off the field, and they had fun, the best times of their lives. They were a family!

High-scorers in half-time entertainment.

The Tumblettes are a major part of the traditional half-time entertainment at every Schem football game. Their varied routines, performed in time with the band, provide a relaxing diversion from the gripping tension that grows so strong during the game. They also stir school spirit during the two pep rallies by executing difficult, (painful?), gymnastic maneuvers. While not a competitive team, this squad, co-captained this season by Joyce Fryklund and Eileen McCabe, is as spirited as any other varsity sport.

A somber moment listening to the Coach's strategy.

The Winchester High field hockey team had a strong start this season. Coaches Ryser and MacDonald led the team successfully through the first several games. Unfortunately, the team met some tough competition and came out of many games with a 1 - 0 loss. Although the season didn't end as hoped, the team members were full of school spirit and pride. This dedication lasted throughout the summer and the fall season. Captain Kathy Hefferman and S. Johnson were high scorers for the Sachemettes. Other important players included K. Day, C. McGann, Captain M. Grassi, S. Fitzgerald, M. Metrick, A. Ferry, D. Fitzgerald. Good luck next fall to co-captains Alice Greene and Caroline Twomey.

The Booters Rebuild

John Brosnan lures the ball within his reach.

The boys soccer team had a very successful season this year. Most people predicted that the season would be spent rebuilding the team, after the loss of so many seniors, but the team proved them wrong. With the strengthened efforts of all on the team, the season proved a success. Tri-Captains Jim Kohr, Stu, McCord, and Robby Horn led the team to a 12-4-2 season, which brought them to the State Tournament. Unfortunately though, they lost the first game in the quarterfinals. This disappointing defeat, however, did not ruin the spirit of victory and team unity that made the season so special.

Sachemettes Will Conquer!

Although this was only the second year that W.H.S. has had a team, the girls proved that they could repeat their first year's success. The team went undefeated with a 11-0-1 record, becoming the Middlesex Merrimack League Champs for the second year in a row. Tri-captains Jacobs, Oram and Driscoll led the team to victory over and over again, with their enthusiasm, leadership, and talent. The girls' record brought them to the State Quarter-Finals, but they were upset 2-1 by Needham. The team hopes that next years team has a very successful season also.

A Mixed Season.

Heading for the finish! — Laurie Redmond

For members of the WHS cross-country team, 1979 was a season to remember. The work-outs were tougher. ("More quarters?") The other teams were tougher. (The girls beat rival Wakefield, but fell to dark-horse league champ Reading.) And yet, despite it all, the fun was better too.

Remember ... ? Posters at Reading, breakfasts, costumes through the Middlesex League before school, baby powder, B in the boys' locker room, three old ladies of Canada, breakfast with the truckers, "Kathy likes worms!", skin-head, crazy Joe Savage, Etcetera ...

Co-captains Myers and Weylman and Costello and Flynn, and all the other seniors wish the underclassmen best of luck for next year. "Remember to send us telegrams when you win the League!" Also, special thanks to Mr. Cantillon and Mr. Maloney, who made us keep running when we didn't want to and when we did.

The 1979-1980 Cheerleaders, (The Sisters), will always treasure the memories of this great year. We've stayed together through laughter and tears to prove that we really are members of a "FAMILY". This year produced a fresh sense of school pride and spirit. Our weekends will always be remembered for burning a dummy on Friday nights and going out decorating.

Our second annual Powder Puff football game brought the cheerleaders to victory, 22-0, thanks to our coaches Jeff, Brad and Billy.

The Cheerleaders of 79-80 are proud to be the first to cheer at a night game. Special thanks to Miss Barsanti, Leah, our mascot Cara Bonnesarra, and our most loyal fan, Steve Longo. Congratulations to all Sachem teams and thank you for giving us a fine season to cheer through.

This year's golf team experienced an unfortunate season. While their 1-8 record showed that they were not too successful with many of their matches, the record failed to show the time and effort that the team put into the season. As the season progressed, the team began to show improvement, as a couple of the later matches were lost by only one point. Good luck to next year's team!

Tracksters Enjoy a Memorable Season.

It's all in the timing. — Mark Costello

This year was not what it could have been for the boys indoor track team, but nevertheless, it was successful. Early losses to Wakefield, Burlington, and Reading were tough to take. Yet the memories of T.C.R. at Sack's house, Wednesday Night Pizza Meets, "That's what she said", "Jaws", Luongo's tattoo, "What, right here in the halls?" squirt gun fights, Z.N., and bring a bucket, will be remembered when the losses are forgotten.

Tremendous contributions were made by first year trackmen: D. Joslin, P. Manganaro, and J. Alcione. Then there are always veterans: B. Flynn, T. Doocey, R. Montouri, F. Koprucu, S. Criscione, T. Wilsack, K. Jacobson, L.

Natsis, and always the captains K. Kirk, and D. MacMillan. Good luck to next years team.

Five years ago, girls' track at WHS was unheard of, but this year the Sachemettes have run across new fame. First time participants in Middlesex League competition, the girls surprised everyone, even themselves, by becoming the dominant power. As the winter season opened, their outlook seemed bleak, since there was "a lack of depth". With the leadership of captains B. Myers and M. Grassi, and outstanding performances from talented and hardworking individuals, the first year team finished #1 in league competition, boasting an undefeated record of 6 and 0.

May these memories of our first season as an official girls' team never be forgotten: "Laadies . . .", our song: "Gotta be cool, relax, get in, get on our track . . .", Rocky Raccoon, uniform check — matching what?, down to the relay, dinner at Klines', Lexington's D.Q. . . ., someone's on our side, "Does anyone know C.P.R.?", Kline's threats . . ., he's such a marshmallow! and don't forget to bring the bucket!

There were many close meets and near heart-attacks, but we made it! Thank-you Mr. Kline and Mr. Cantillon for a great season and also for believing that we could do it! Here's to continued success next year — Good luck!

The Sachem swim team began with a slight advantage of 15 swimmers as compared to the traditional 13 and assistant coach Vincent Palumbo Jr. Although the team was plagued by injuries, it managed to keep its fervor for winning meets. Strong swimmers and supporters were senior co-captains C. Porter, M. Minutoli, B. Berkley, B. Sullivan, and M. Estabrook. The juniors and sophomores carried their weight surprisingly well with such swimmers as B. McGillicuddy, R. Webber, A. Christy and C. Green. All promise to be exceptional swimmers next year.

Not only was this year's 6-4 season excellent in terms of performance, but the Swim Team made the Globe! Beginning among the rubble of the under-construction Arlington Boys Club and then moving to the "home" pool in Wakefield, the 1979 season was full of changes. Joining "Dad" Palumbo was his son Vinnie. Together, the coaching staff provided the guidance and attention necessary for a successful team.

While practice was an ordeal with exploding off the wall, kicking like "mad," Vinnie's whistle and Coach Palumbo's shouts of "Maak Go!", getting there was the most difficult part of the morning. The 5:00 A.M. journey to Wakefield every morning was always an adventure, between sightseeing in the cemetery and flying over the tracks, but the swimmers always got there.

Everything paid off in the end as the Sachemettes proved to be top league competition. The Sachemettes took their Sachem Powaa to the Easterns where 12 swimmers were invited to compete. The team would like to say thanks and goodbye to Senior tri-captains Beth and Veronica and all the other seniors: Jeanne, Linnea, Terry, Sheila and Lisa!

The Girls Basketball team was picked as a heavy favorite in the league this season. They were rated second only to Burlington in the pre-season coaches poll. The main reason for the high ranking of Winchester was the talent returning this year. Returning seniors were tri-captains K. Day, C. Driscoll, and All-Star B. Jacobs, also K. Hefferman, G. Oram, and L. Redmond. A couple of games that highlighted the season were the 37-36 victory over arch-rival Woburn in their first meeting of the season and a big 49-44 win over Burlington in their second encounter. Good luck to next year's team!

It was a frustrating year for the hockey team. In 15 games the Sachems managed only one victory and one tie. But there is hope for the future. This year's line-up was dotted with 11 sophomores and 4 juniors; most of this group got plenty of ice-time. The Sachems showed marked improvement over the second half of the season. The improvement should continue next season. The captains of this season were B. Surabian and B. Pronski. The team was coached by M. Houghton with K. Chrusz assisting.

The girls' gymnastics team has pulled through with another winning season. Even though the seniors, Captain J. Fryklund and E. McCabe were unable to compete due to injury and illness, the juniors and sophomores carried the team to victory. Their closest meet, against Lexington, ended in a 108.3 to 106.1 victory for Winchester. With the return of these experienced gymnasts next year's season should be even more successful.

Boy's Gymnastics Hang in There!

The boy's gymnastics team has accomplished a lot this year. The return of talented juniors and seniors and the look of promising new sophomores has added a diversity to the team. Co-captains Steve Galante and Paul Abbanat help out in all areas of ability. Team members: Lance Cowan, Tom Fiorillo, David Lawton, Unis Bjangard, Tom Powers, Paul Fuller have all proven to be strong competitors. In spite of the fact that the season was neither poor nor outstanding, the performances of the gymnasts have always shown the effort and spirit exhibited by the team.

Wrestling Revitalizes

"Psst . . . how about letting me win?"

The 79-80 wrestling season closed with a final record which unfortunately did not reflect the hard work and determination shown by both the team members and the coach. As the majority of the wrestlers were sophomores, this season represented a rebuilding year. Despite the overabundance of sophomores, the team managed to substitute its lack of experience with unrelenting aggressiveness, which proved quite effective against the best teams. All in all, despite a disappointing record, a lot of experience and technique was gained which will strengthen next year's team.

Ed. McKenna's version of the Heinlich maneuver.

Homework does not school spirit make. Because the class of 1980 was filled with spirit and enthusiasm, they obviously involved themselves with more than studying. This is where activities came in. Traditionally, these official organizations acted as an integral part of high school life. As proven by the 1979-80 school year, the clubs were continually changing to meet the demands and interests of all the students. A renewed interest in all the language clubs, the rising popularity of the marching band, a newly initiated computer club, and the emergence of a fully chartered satirical newspaper demonstrated that the activities of our senior year were more powerful than ever. While some clubs offer rowdy parties, others impart intellectual stimulation. But whoever the student, and whatever his interests, one of WHS' many activities provided the necessary outlet for his creative development.

In September there was organization, enthusiasm, and a clean cabinet. Then, the workload snowballed, the cabinet burst, and the editors had nervous breakdowns. Yes, the yearbook was underway.

Suffocating under the pile of layouts, munching out at White Hen, the 13 editors could be found virtually anywhere during the active yearbook months; the Aberjona was undoubtedly foremost in their minds, even though total chaos reigned.

But there was more to yearbook than chaos and confusion. There was also frustration, near suicides, and Excedrin headaches. But seriously: The memorable experiences pulled us through: the birthday parties, Coke and chips, camp outs in the English area, Helloooo!, "No, René, I won't ...," the Amherst conference, "When Ms. Austin's away, the editors will play."

"Patience, Carol," C. Sardella and J. Day

Announcing — "Not The Red and Black"

Editors of the Round Table . . . M. Costello, C. Merritt, F. Koprucu, J. Haber.

"Get it while its hot!"

The Not the Red and Black its initial season was a complete success. Though we lost many readers to a declining literacy rate, we carried the team to a 5-0 record, and to a place in everyone's hearts as the only fully-chartered high school humor magazine in the western hemisphere.

"The Not Red & Black" began with little fan fare. While doing studies of the rare Aborigine Tribes — man in Southern Woburn, John Haber pricked his finger on a passing cloud formation and was immediately (to use his words)" siezed with an uncontrollable desire to found a humor newspaper that would satirize school authority and look really spiffy on my college transcript."

Searching through the scum and villany of medieval London,

Haber slowly built an editorial staff. There was Chuck Merrit, the editor with the strength of a thousand men; Feza Koprucu, who could contort his body into all positions; Mark Costello who could wear his pants to school backwards without anyone really noticing.

Secreting issues every two months, "The Not The Red & Blac," sought to make people laugh a little, cry a little, and have mature adult relationships with poultry.

Thanks should go to Mr. Rogers, Captain Pluton, Ed King, the internationally renowned singing star Roger Whittaker and his nude pygmies. Farewell to all-nighters, something special wasps and their tmp's and to next year's editorial staff.

"We'll never reveal our source!"

"Wouldn't you like to know!"

The Red and Black staff of 1979-80 found themselves caught between changing times and an unchanging school newspaper. With this in mind, the editors used the school year 1979-80 as a year of renovation, and over that time period the paper became much stronger. Improvements will always be an integral part of the Red and Black, to keep the paper in equilibrium between popularity and progress. With its October issue, however, the staff learned that nothing is ever initiated without some adverse pressure; chance is never easy, but it is always necessary. Each time the Red and Black appeared on sale in front of the cafeteria, it contained an innovation of one type or another over the previous issue. This was the essential factor behind the success of the Red and Black.

The Creative Writing Club, dedicated to producing Sassafrass before summer vacation, is larger this year than ever before. While primarily club activities, and playing an integral part in the International Fair, The magazine, itself, has expanded to include, not only a variety of creative pieces, but also art and publicity writing.

Yet, what lies behind this impressive task? The Friday afternoon meetings remain the foundation of the club. Here, creative works are discussed and criticized. Meetings range from serious debates to distinctly different discussions which contribute to the inspiration and imagination of this club. The Creative Writing Club wishes to thank Ms. Hession for her support and advice as student advisor.

"On the Radio."

WHSR-FM, one of the first high school radio stations in the United States, offers a rare opportunity for students to express themselves each year in a new and dynamic way. Each week, every D.J. broadcasts his own two hour show. During this period a variety of music is played, guided by the rules and regulations of the F.C.C., student advisor, Dave Frary, and station manager John Feeney.

Aside from providing an excellent opportunity for students, WHSR-FM also serves the entire student body and the community by broadcasting public events, sports events, weather, elderly information, and news. Possibly the last full year of WHSR-FM operation, the station hopes to have had one of its most productive and beneficial years.

Cries of "It's Miller Time!" signaled the beginning of the half-time show. This fifteen minute performance prompted as much enthusiasm as the actual football game. The Band roared through "Classical Gas", marched about to form a field-sized heart in "Love Boat" and "discoed" through "In The Navy". To see the response of the crowd, and watch the band's performance, one would never know that those musically adept members had been "cruisin'" around town at 6:30 a.m., eaten cheeseburgers and french fries for breakfast, and just completed a rousing three hour practice.

the bleary-eyed 7:10 a.m. practices, lollipops, inspection time, silent cheers, band wars, sunglasses at early Saturday morning practices, the Halloween day march through Woburn(?!), the show, rowdy band parties, Christmas caroling, the exchange trip to New York (again!), the attempt at a Canadian exchange, selling cheese, sausages and Sachem buttons, and above all, the antics of their leader, Ms. Miller.

Whether playing on the field, or performing on stage at seasonal concerts, the band members were sure to hold their "eyes with pride".

Strains of "Fantasy," "It's So Easy," and other current songs can be heard every day as one meanders down the hallway towards the music area. Electric guitars, saxaphones, and trumpets provide a distinctively modern sound that sets the jazz band apart from the other musical clubs at the school. For the jazz band, comprised of talented musicians from all three grades, the 1979-1980 school year proved to be a very successful one. Whether practicing or performing in seasonal concerts, jazz band members are sure to gain ample musical experience and many hours of enjoyment.

The orchestra is comprised of pianos, flutes, trumpets, clarinets, violins, a cello and a bassoon; or as Mr. Woodworth would say — pianos, flutes, bugles, licorice sticks, fiddles, a cello and a bed-post. Orchestra would not be the same without Mr. Woodworth: playing "My Fair Lady" . . . tuning the trumpets . . . or just being Mr. Woodworth . . .

Remember the Exchange Concerts? Yes, the orchestra sold buttons and cheese and sausage and worked in the chuck wagon too. As a result everyone could go to Madison, N.J., Westbury, N.Y., and then . . . New York again in 1980!

This is strictly a white — toga party!

Catullus, Cicero, Caesar, Plautus. Do you know any of these men? We do! In the Latin Club one becomes familiar with many of the great authors and poets. But that is not all we do. Members will agree, the Latin Club is the best! Along with the traditional toga — Halloween parties and toga — Christmas parties, there are movies, naughty plays, and, of course, activities related to the Latin language and the Classic world. We always try to follow our motto: "AMEMUS ET FACIAMUS". We owe a great debt of gratitude to our advisor, Ms. Ciccariello, who has put endless time, energy, and sometimes money (!) into the club. Well, Latiners, keep translating. Thanks for a wonderful year, and remember: SEMPER UBI SUBUBI!

As largest of all foreign language clubs, the Spanish Club, with a membership of 150 students, had a very exciting year. Ms. Alvarez, their enthusiastic advisor, helped to plan and organize all of the events, including the traditional (and successful) Halloween costume party. December was highlighted by the festive Christmas party, carolling, and a trip to see the Whole World Festival in Boston. January brought a visit to an authentic "tuna", a singing group from Madrid. The club also participated in the school's International Festival held in March. The spring's exchange with students from Madrid allowed the club to meet actual españoles and to increase their understanding of the Spanish culture.

Three classes of German (representing levels I through III) and a very active German club were two obvious results of teacher Susan Austin's third year at WHS. The club was busy with many activities — the traditional Oktoberfest, old and new versions of the film "Nosferatu the Vampyre", and sporadic parties complete with singing and munching "auf Deutsch." Whether planned in advance or spontaneous, each German activity was always "different" and fun.

With the Class of 1980, the remainder of the original German students who crowded into Frau Austin's room back in September, 1977, graduates. Hopefully, nervous beginning German students will continue to hear "Peter geht an den see" and other similar expressions as the seniors did two years ago for many years to come. The French Club, with the help of advisor, Monsieur Duhamel, had an active year. Club officers, Pres. Peter Gittleman, Vice-pres. Colleen McGann, Secretary Cathy Chen and Treasurer Nancy Cowen, planned several well-attended educational and enjoyable trips. Excursions to the Museum of Fine Arts to see the Chardin exhibit and to the French play by St. Exupery, "Le Petit Prince," highlighted the club's cultural roster, while several non-French parties proved a more relaxed setting for club members to socialize in. The French Club also sponsored a crêpe booth at the International Fair. A multi-school immersion weekend was made available to members wishing to participate. Throughout the year, the club enjoyed an increased membership, indicating a revival and perhaps a new tradition.

The Italian Club is an enthusiastic part of the foreign language department at the high school. Under the support of club advisor, Mrs. Mancini, these Italians meet in the spirit of this foreign culture. "Viva Italia" has always meant continuing the customs of Italian parties, social events, and the grandioso "Festival" of food, music, and dance, which is held every spring. The experiences will always be remembered!

The Curtain and Cue Society, under the direction of Dorothy Santos, staged an excellent production of "The Diary of Anne Frank." Breaking traditions of past years, the 1979 fall production dealt with a very serious topic. All of the actors displayed a wide range of emotions, and handled the dramatic realism very well. The dynamic stage, designed by Kira Hirshman, consisted of two levels. Doug Watts and his crew constructed a closed set with the help of technical advisor Bill Cochran. Chris Hill oversaw the backstage work, while Chris Wilde headed properties and Tony Johnson met the needs of many quick changes as the head of costumes. All the technical and dramatic expertise was enthusiastically received by the audience. The winter musical production of "Hello Dolly" also promises to be very entertaining.

Roxbury Tutorers

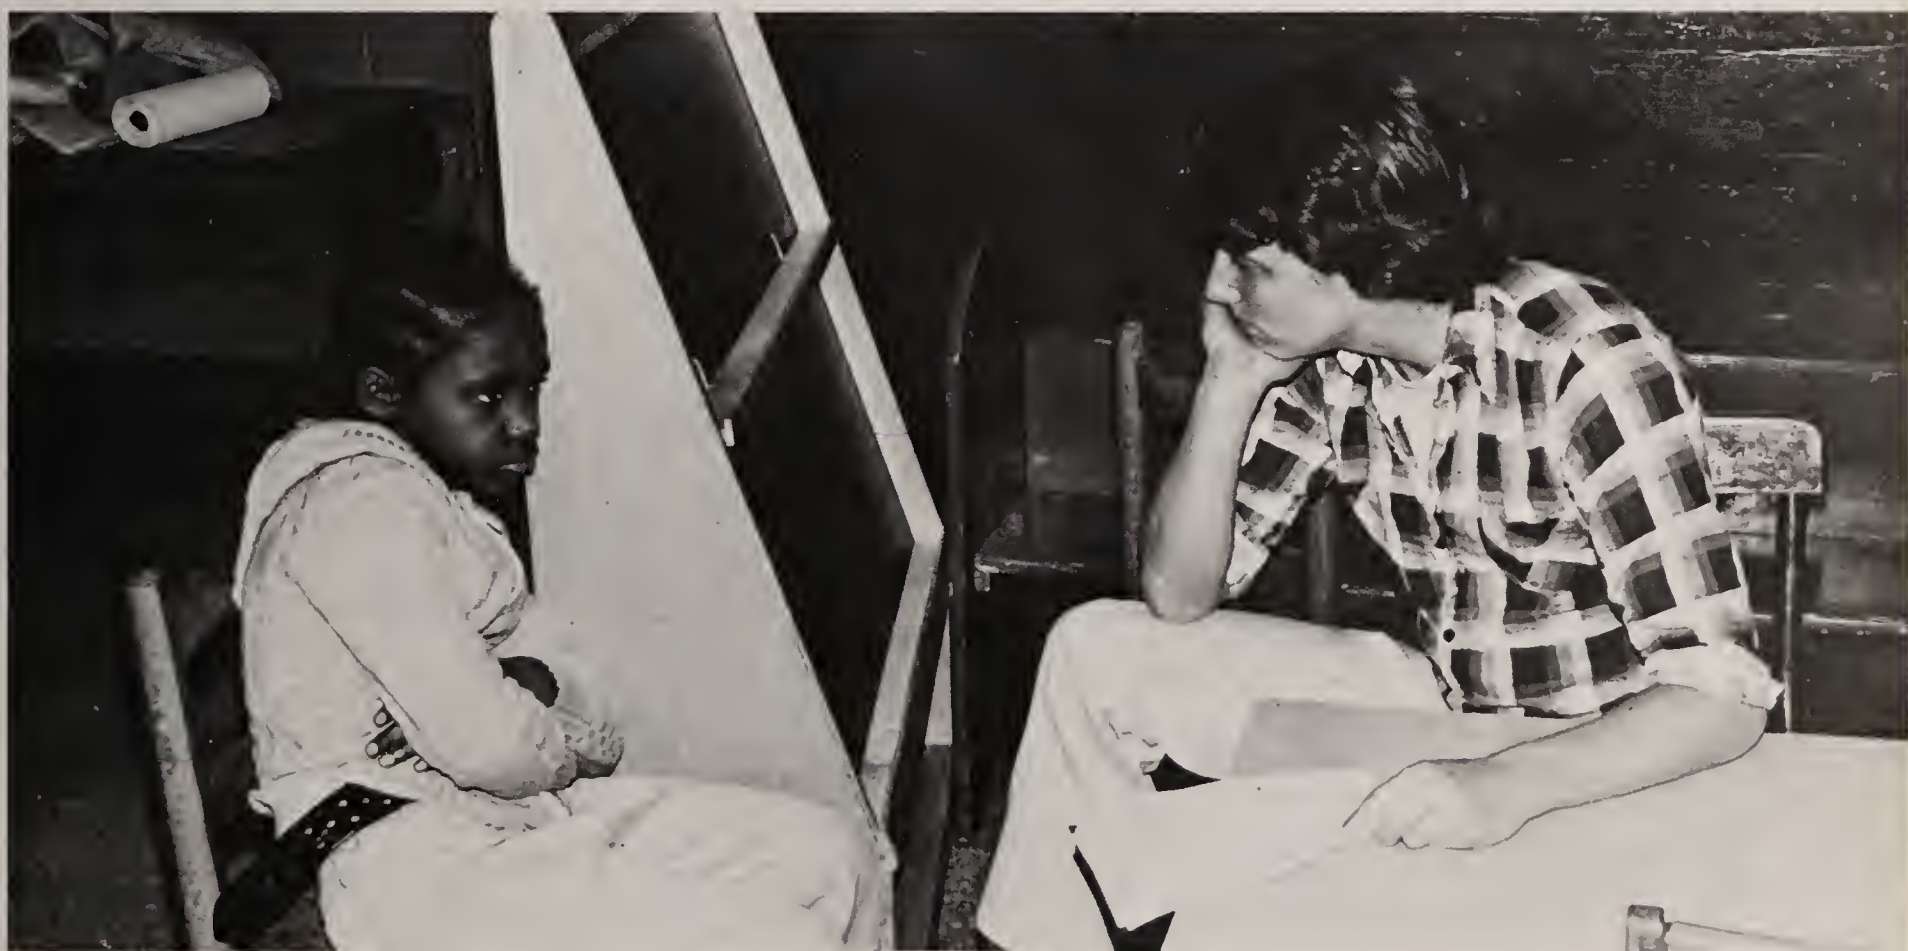

Every Monday afternoon 20 WHS students traveled to Boston as members of the Roxbury Tutoring program. Here, along with small groups from two other towns, each student was assigned a young child to tutor. The children ranged in age from five to twelve, and their learning needs were greatly varied. Each tutor constructed his/her own teaching plan and lessons. While this extracurricular tutoring helped the children academically, a close friendship with each child was formed as well. While it was great to see a child's grades and awareness rise because of a tutor's help, the one-to-one contact was the best part.

During the past school year, our Winchester High School Student Union made an enormous amount of progress! The Student Union, a respected, determined, and dynamic organization, tremendously expanded its student participation. This not only benefitted our school, but also the welfare of the community. What word first comes to mind when trying to explain the involvement of Student Union? Dedication!!! Working in a professional and diligent manner to achieve a common goal, a warm sense of unity was felt among all involved. The overflowing spirit and enthusiasm enabled us to fully enjoy participation in student government. The Student Union was a credit to the entire student body. We succeeded in 1979-80. Student Union wishes to express sincere gratitude to the WHS parents, the administrators, the faculty, Mrs. Nancy Atkins, and the infinite enthusiasm, willingness and dedication exemplified by its advisor, Ms. Rande Martin.

Music Makes The World Go 'Round

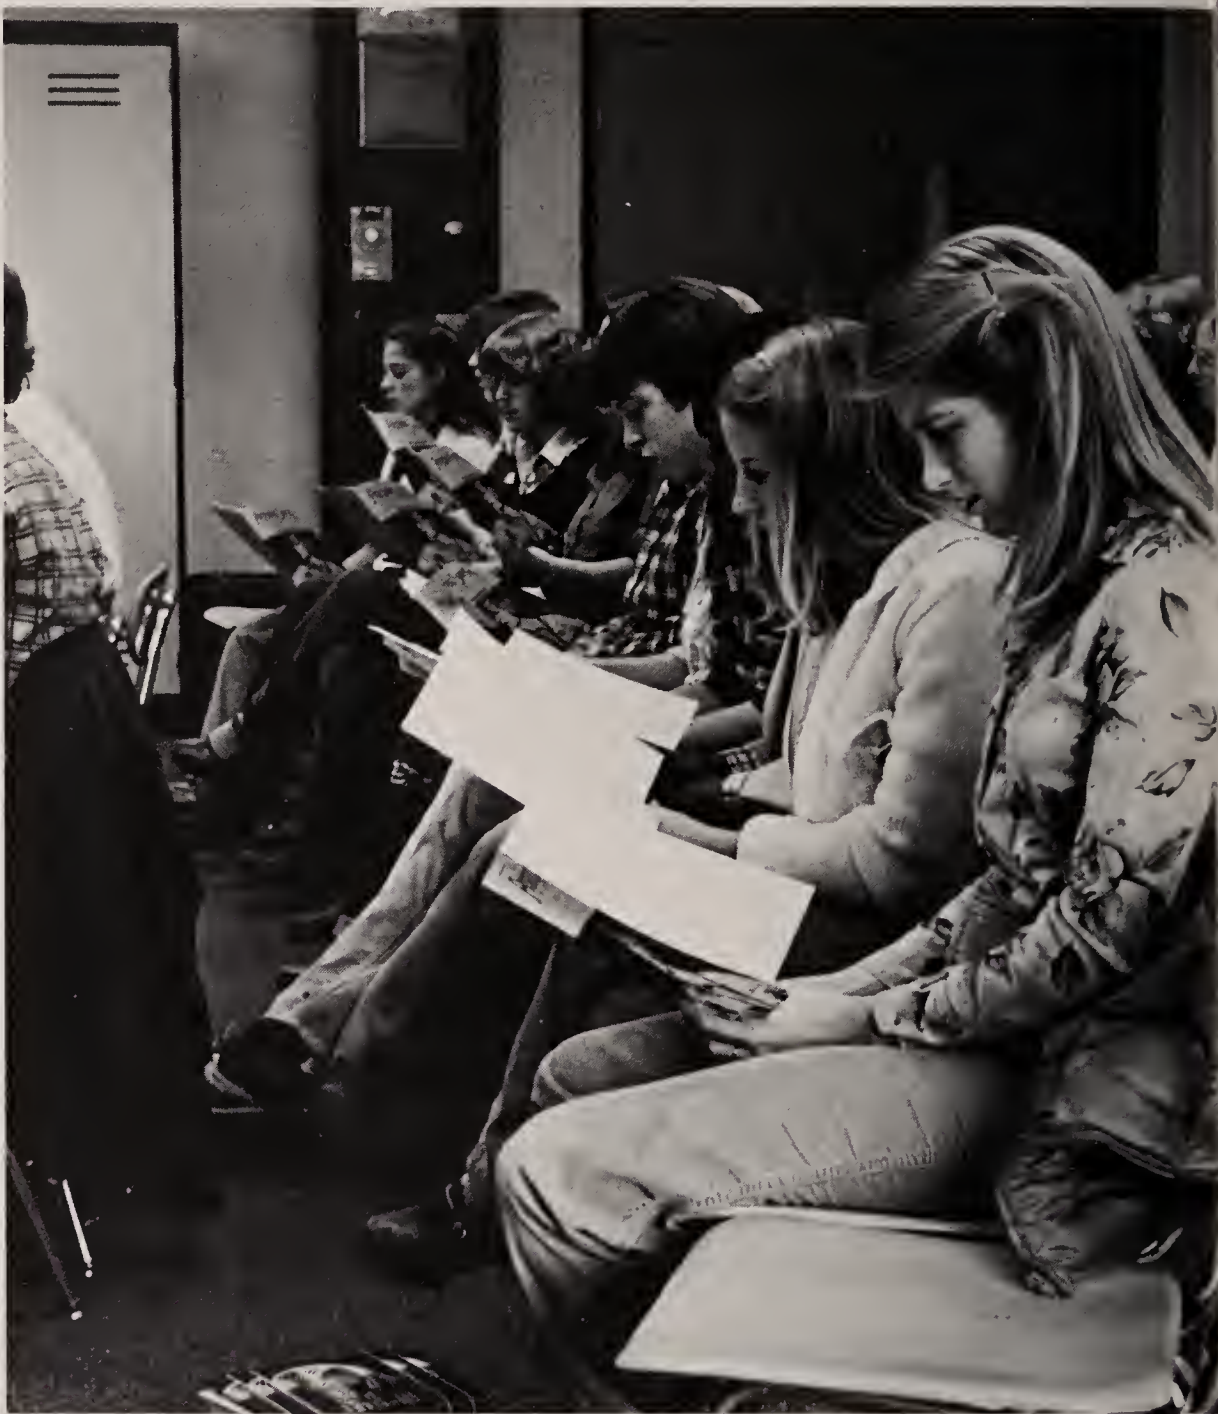

Second period every day, a variety of songsters gathered in the Music room to raise their voices in song under the direction of Mr. Burton Cowgill. While not all the students were opera hopefuls, they all shared one thing in common: their love of singing.

The class concentrated on practicing the numbers they would sing in concert. The songs varied greatly in style, theme and era. At the Winter Concert, several religious songs were sung, such as "God Is Our Refuge and Strength" and "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel", as well as the contemporary "Annie's Song", by John Denver, and the theatre-goer's favorite, "Broadway Spectacular," which featured excerpts from "Hello, Dolly!", "Tomorrow", "Kiss Today Goodbye" and "Mame". The Chorus also travelled to New York to perform in the annual exchange concert. Their selection for that concert included "Man of La Mancha" and "Pedeum" by J. Clokey.

Music travels a long way with this year's musical groups, Les Troubadors, a French choral group, and Los Compañeros, a Spanish instrumental club. Hard work, and talent combine with the tempo of foreign music to produce dynamic cultural performances. These clubs have performed publicly on many occasions under the direction of Mrs. Thistlethwaite. At the Whole World Festival in Boston the groups sang a number of foreign songs. Among the Troubador selections were "Sur le Ciel de Paris", "L'Amour Bleu," "Vive le Vent" (Jingle Bells), and "Il Est Né". Members of Les Troubadors include Peter and Julia Gittleman, Anne-Louise Casey, Jeff Richmond, Andrea Pothier, Cathy Chen, Brian Molluscas, Rob Hallisey, Jenny Parsignault, Carolyn Hart, Jeanette Pamir and Ellen Coates. The Spanish group, which wears rustic straw sombreros as part of their costume, enjoys singing "La Cucharacha," "Green-sleeves," "Tijuana Taxi," and the "Mexican Shuffle." The groups also sang together at the International Festival in March.

What snow?

Whether you enjoy snowplowing or traversing, the Ski Club offers several exciting trips. This year, under the guidance of Mr. Miller, several high school skiers trekked to Sugarloaf in Maine to conquer the challenging trails and discouraging weather. An absence of snow occasionally made skiing difficult, yet even the bared rocks and grass failed to hinder student enthusiasm. Perhaps next year, other trips to France and Quebec will be arranged as well, as the skiers listen anxiously for the chance of snow

Max Ed.: Try It, You'll Like It.

Stephanie Johnson explores a career in Physical Therapy.

Margie McCarthy, working in the Winchester Star Office, gains experience in journalism.

Julie Day, outside the office of Mr. Marino, a Winchester attorney, investigates the possibility of a career in law.

What do forty students have in common within this diverse high school? The answer: Max-Ed., a unique learning experience that allows students to explore the career area of their choice. Coming from a wide range of diverse academic and social backgrounds, the students give up a block of academic time and their free time to become part of some aspect of the business community of Winchester. Many stores, offices and organizations opened their doors to offer students a rare chance to participate in a career prior to making a commitment to that area.

Max-Ed. is not new, although it is relatively unknown and unpublicized. For seven years the semester-long programs have been in operation. Students may select from the established programs or "create" a special course tailored to fit their own goals.

Max-Ed. offers a great deal of flexibility also. Self-designed projects were encouraged and supported. In Boston, DeLaine Hudson created an internship at the State House where she worked with Sen. Rotondi and his staff. Locally, Craig Rooney explored the various facets of jewelry repair and customer relations, while Marlene Metrick tested her drafting skills at a Winchester engineering firm.

Many students in the first semester took advantage of set programs. Stephanie Johnson participated in a physical therapy program, working at either the hospital or a local outpatient center, while Martha Johnson and Colleen Rae gained experience at the Winchester Nursing Home, planning activities for the elderly patients.

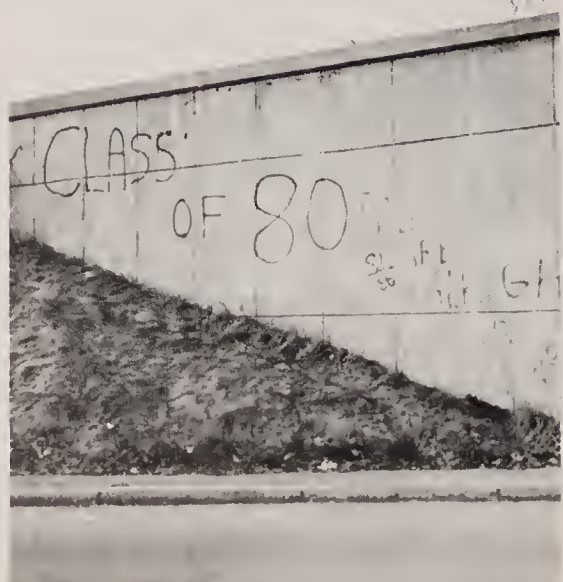

In the education field, Chris Wilde, Beth Morgan, Amy Maxwell, and Judy McIsaac assisted teachers in various elementary schools while Maria Della-Salla, Denise Gangi, Colleen McGann, and Beth O'Neil observed children in local nursery schools.

The potential careers represented in just this small view of Max-Ed. is impressive. Under the guidance of Ms. Boettcher and Ms. Maxwell the students in this program have become aware and informed about their possible career selections. Not only is the program one of the most educational WHS offers, it is also apparently one of the most enjoyed. Many students have named Max-Ed. their favorite course, and how many high school courses have achieved that rating?

Just Hanging Around

The only answer for the munchies? White Hen!

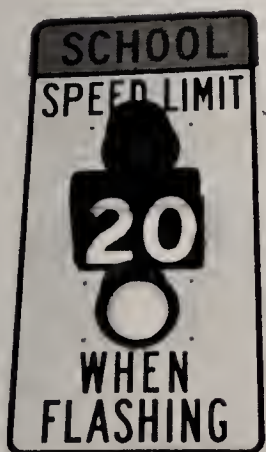

Cruisin ...

USA: The universal hangout.

School takes up alot of time, extra-curricular activities take even more, but weekends don't take enough! When each Friday and Saturday come, the seniors were sure to take advantage of them. There were, of course, the legitimate activities: basketball games, movies or various rowdy parties. But on other nights kids practiced the art of "hanging around". And what could be better than a favorite hangout, munchies, and drinks, and a bunch of friends? Visits to USA, the golf course, the quarries, the train station, Lynch, and White Hen made the Sr. weekend nights something special.

What limit?

Winchester Police cruisers await the weekend chases.

Winchester's business community is constantly changing. Although there are the old, well-established businesses that have become traditions in the town, others come and go as the business community adapts to meet the changing times. This year, the town of Winchester granted the first liquor license to a public restaurant. Brigham's, among other businesses, is under new management opting to provide better service for its customers. Rumors of expansion and relocation are not uncommon. Students of Winchester High School hold part-time jobs in many of the local businesses such as Mahoney's, Star Market, The News Shop, and White Hen Pantry. The Aberjona staff wishes to thank all those businesses whose contributions have helped to support the Class of '80.

Tradition . . .

As the red and black caps are tossed into the sky above Manchester Field, high school is instantly transformed from a present reality to a perpetual memory.

Among the most prominent memories we will carry with us from Winchester High School are the traditions, both personal and school-wide which we have built during our years in town.

Could Thanksgiving possibly have been T-day without the annual Sachem-Tanner game or could senioritis possibly have been complete without the traditional skip day?

We enjoyed the proms, the dances, the exchange programs and carnation days and we suffered through the drudgery of school lunches, exams, term papers, and study halls. The important thing is that we lived through these times, both the good and the bad, together.

The new Project Adventure IV adds thrills to the everyday gym class.

Lee Behnke, working in the new position of multicultural specialist of Winchester, speaks during a meeting of the International Fair Committee.

Julia Gittleman, working at the W.H.S. blood mobile, illustrates the modern temperature taking method on Anne Bruno.

Toga! A new tradition of the seventies.

The revival of Girls Soccer has made it a strong Sachem sport.

Therese Murray, Drum Major of the marching band, leads the band through another exciting success at a football game.

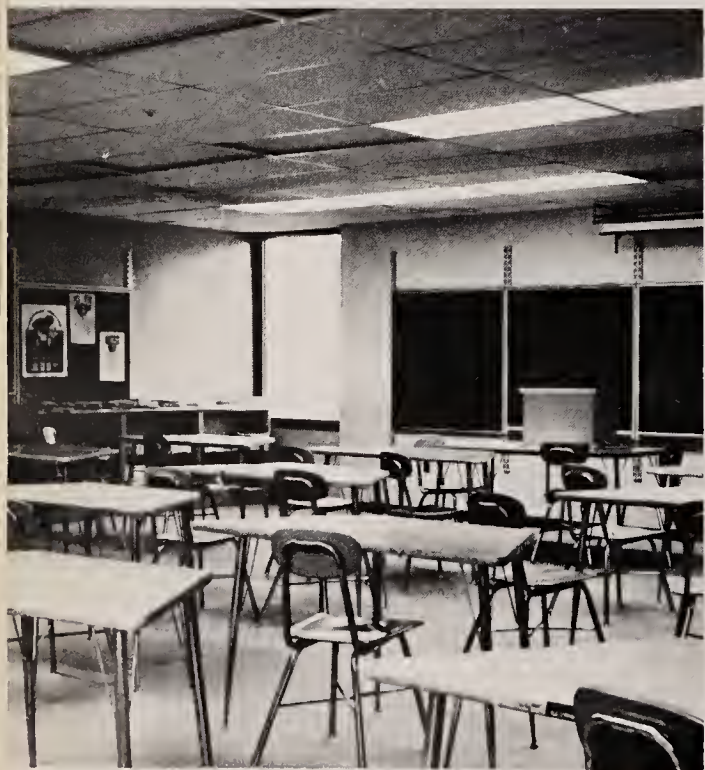

Laura McGovern holds a carnation between her teeth, a result of the second annual Carnation Day.

Tradition . . .

We are leaving school,

. . . the classrooms where we gained
"valuable knowledge",

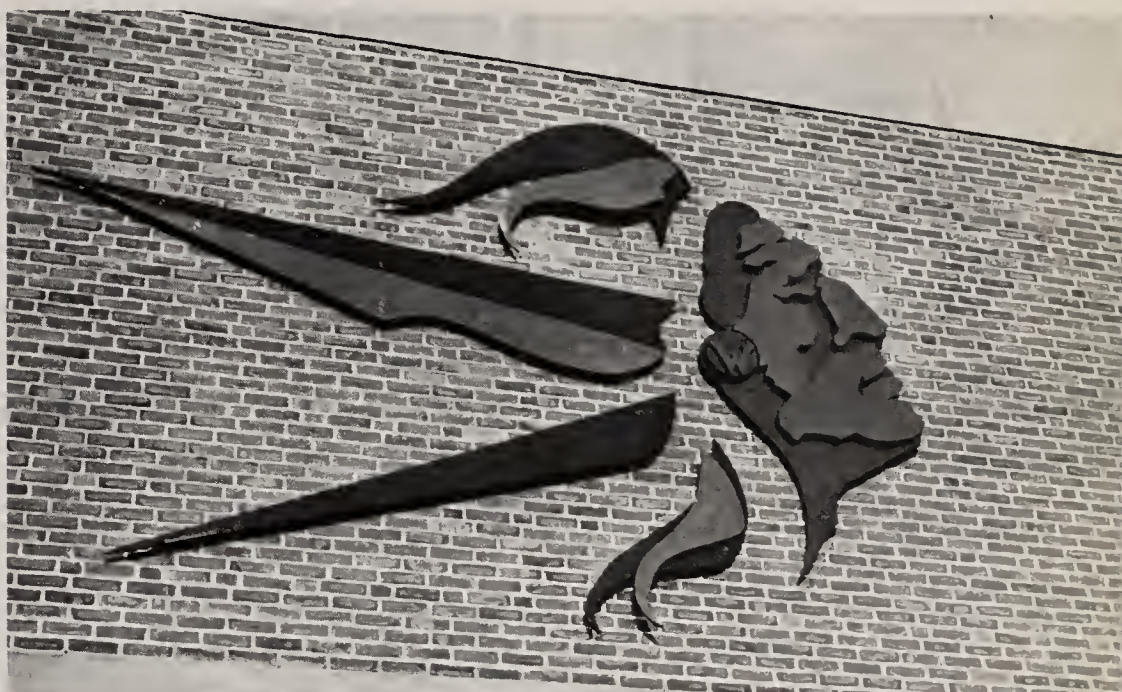

. . . the halls where we walked with friends,

... the courtyards where we socialized.

Where past traditions weren't sufficient, we created our own. The "weepuls" that flooded the hallways during the senior magazine drive made that week an especially memorable one. The international fair and the new awareness of cultural differences that prevailed this year have improved the quality of relationships and attitudes among students. Our New Traditions are starting places, beginnings for following classes to continue with, and beginnings for our memories to build on.

We are leaving high school life behind

... to face our future beyond W.H.S.

Traditions are something solidly accepted that can be relied on in time of need. Through them the past can be related to the present, allowing one to draw on the things one has built and believes in. Consider the traditions you've been involved in here at W.H.S. as foundations, building blocks on which to develop your entire life. Think of them to learn and grow and especially to enjoy as you approach the challenge of the future.

Our destiny exercises its influence over us even when, as yet, we have not learned its nature; it is our future that lays down the laws of our today.

-Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche
